

Fundamentals of Clinical Supervision Course

for Psychotherapists, Couple & Family Therapists and Social Workers interested in developing their supervision knowledge and skills

April 25, 26 and May 8, 9, 2020

Instructors:

Brenda Bolliger MSW, RSW, RMFT-SM
Susan Winter Fledderus RP, RMFT-SM, RSW

Fee: $800 early bird
$850 after March 1
includes refreshments

Space is available for 24 participants
Register Early!

Location: Hamilton, ON

Course Description:

This course has been pre-approved by CAMFT and is designed for professionals wishing to pursue their CAMFT Supervisory Designation or to further develop their supervision skills. The course emphasizes the integration of supervision theory with selected supervision practice issues. It features a critical review of several major models of clinical supervision and a focus on facilitating the co-evolving supervision-therapy systems. Participants will develop and articulate a personal model of supervision. This course requires intense participation in a range of academic, interactive and reflective exercises designed for professional development.

This advanced clinical course is designed for experienced therapists who want to expand their practice to include training and supervising of other clinicians as they develop their skills in individual, couple and family therapy.

Brenda Bolliger has practiced and provided training, supervision and consultation in the field of individual, couple and family therapy for over 30 years. She has held a number of sessional instructor positions in the field, and is dedicated to the process of lifelong learning and professional development. Her private practice focuses on relationship based issues, as well as supervision, consultation and training.

This 30 hour course is taught over four days. Each day will include a mix of didactic presentation, interactional learning exercises, and large- and small-group discussion.

Required Texts:

Jordan, K. (Ed.). (2016). Couple, marriage, and family therapy supervision. New York: Springer Publishing Company

Lee, R & Nelson, T. (2013). The Contemporary Relational Supervisor. New York: Routledge.

CAMFT/ACTCF RMFT Supervisor Certification Procedures and Competencies Guidebook

Ethical Guidelines of participant's governing bodies: CAMFT, CRPO, OCSWSSW or other relevant Code of Ethics.

Participants are responsible for obtaining the required texts and articles. It is highly recommended that participants read a majority of the selected readings prior to attending the course.

Susan Winter Fledderus has more than 20 years of experience in the field of individual, couple and family therapy. She has been teaching and providing clinical supervision and supervision mentoring for over 10 years to therapists and supervisors working toward their CRPO or CAMFT certifications or other professional designations.

To register call 866.347.0041
or visit:
www.shalemnetwork.org/events